LJUBEZEN GRE SKOZI ŽELODEC

Slovenija je v leto 2021 vstopila kot nosilka Evropske gastronomiske regije. Naziv ji je podelil Mednarodni inštitut za gastronomijo, kulturo, umetnost in turizem (IGCAT).

V Sloveniji kultura nabiranja divje hrane in oskrbe s svežimi sestavinami iz bližnjih kotičkov ni modni trend, temveč del tradicije in pomemben del usmerjenosti v trajnostni razvoj. Okusi ob morju niso enaki kot pod alpskimi vrhovi. Panonska nižina ponuja druge okuse kot Kras. Prav stičišče evropskega alpskega, mediteranskega, kraškega in panonskega prostora je botrovalo k oblikovanju edinstvene gastronomiske podobe dežele. Kar ponuja narava, se v kuhinji spremeni v različne okuse. V Sloveniji jih predstavlja 24 samostojnih gastronomskih regij, ki poznajo več kot 170 razpoznavnih in značilnih jedi.

Mozaik promocijskih aktivnosti v letu Slovenije kot Evropske gastronomiske regije dopolnjuje tematska fotografksa razstava »Ljubezen gre skozi želodec«.

LOVE GOES THROUGH THE STOMACH

Slovenia entered 2021 with the title of European Gastronomic Region, for the area of the whole country. The title was awarded by the International Institute for Gastronomy, Culture, Art and Tourism (IGCAT).

The habit of gathering wild food and using fresh local ingredients is not a fashion trend in Slovenia but part of tradition and an important element of Slovenia's focus on sustainable development. Culinary tastes by the sea are not the same as they are among the Alpine peaks. The Pannonian Plain offers different flavours to those of the Karst. Being at the hub of European Alpine, Mediterranean, Karst and Pannonian areas has thus contributed to the creation of our country's unique gastronomic image. What nature offers is transformed into tastes in the kitchen, and this diversity is today seen in as many as 24 independent gastronomic regions, containing over 170 recognizable and characteristic dishes of Slovenia.

The mosaic of promotional activities in the year of Slovenia as a European Gastronomic Region is complemented by a thematic photographic exhibition "Love goes through the stomach".

Bogata muzejska fotografksa zapuščina celotnega 20. stoletja, ki jo hrani Muzej novejše zgodovine Slovenije, ohranja številne kulinarične podobe Slovenije. Reportažne fotografije prikazujejo slovensko gastronomijo – od povsem vsakdanjih trenutkov pridelave in uživanja hrane do številnih prireditev, povezanih z jedmi in vini. Že od pomladi sledimo tradiciji slanikove pojedine in velikonočni peki potice, kulinarično bogati jeseni pa sledi zima, obogatena z najrazličnejšimi vrstami kolin in izdelavo mesnih izdelkov, pomembnim družbenim ritualom slovenskega človeka. Avtorjem reportažnih fotografij: Svetozarju Busiču, Marjanu Cigliču, Zlatku Deniši, Leonu Jeretu, Egonu Kašetu, Mišku Kranjcu, Jožetu Mallyu, Rudiju Paškuliu, Ediju Šelhausu in Vlastji Simončiču se z gastronomskimi fotografijami pridružuje večkrat nagrajeni kulinarični fotograf Janez Pukšič.

Cilj razstave je prikazati že omenjeno edinstvenost slovenske gastronomije, ki bo prav ob ponovnem zagonu restavracij eden ključnih produktov, s pomočjo katerih bo po koncu pandemije okreval domači turizem. Potrebno bo intenzivno spodbujanje lokalne samooskrbe, mreže kratkih dobavnih verig, lokalnih gastronomskih znamk in zelene trajnostne kuhinje.

Pridružite se nam, da skupaj okusimo Slovenijo.

The rich museum photographic heritage kept by the National Museum of Contemporary History, covering almost the whole of the 20th century, preserves many culinary images of Slovenia. The photographs thus show Slovene gastronomy, from purely everyday moments of producing and enjoying food to numerous events connected with food and wine. So from springtime we first follow the tradition of the well-known Herring Feast, through baking potica at Easter until we enter the culinarily rich autumn and finish the year with winter, which is enriched with various kinds of slaughter-time meats and making various meat products, which has long been an important social ritual for Slovenes. The authors of the photo-reportage: Svetozar Busić, Marjan Ciglič, Zlatko Deniša, Leon Jere, Egon Kaše, Miško Kranjc, Jože Mally, Rudi Paškulin, Edi Šelhaus in Vlastja Simončič, are joined by the gastronomic photographs of several times award-winning culinary photographer Janez Pukšič.

The aim of the exhibition is to show the already mentioned uniqueness of Slovene gastronomy, which will be one of the key attractions when restaurants once again open, with the help of which domestic tourism will recover after the end of the pandemic. Intensive promotion of local self-sufficiency, a network of short supply chains, local gastronomic brands and green sustainable cuisine will be very much needed.

Join us, please, so that we can Taste Slovenia together.
